TITLE OF DEGREE PROGRAM: Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology

Enter a brief summary of the purpose of this proposal.

The anthropology major at Cal State San Marcos is an applied, collaborative, and interdisciplinary course of study that engages students directly with the interests and efforts of local communities. The anthropology major emphasizes cultural anthropology, one of the four sub-disciplines of anthropology and takes into primary consideration the special role of Cal State San Marcos in the North San Diego County region and the opportunities for community-based research and fieldwork. The anthropology major has two research areas—medical anthropology and indigenous anthropology—that interrelate and complement each other. After a core curriculum of anthropological concepts and methods, anthropology students work collaboratively with local communities and agencies, including farmworkers, local Native American Bands, migrants/immigrants, local health service providers, state and county Departments of Health, indigenous Mexicans and Oaxaqueños, and other communities. Through an engaged and innovative curriculum that responds to state and regional needs, the anthropology program trains students in qualitative and quantitative research methods that include ethnography, participant observation, ethnographic film, social documentation, ethnomedicine, ethnobotany, and applied archaeology. The anthropology major distinguishes itself through long-term collaborative research projects with Community Partners that enhance student learning experiences, promote the interests of local communities, and practice complementary exchange between the university and the community.

The interdisciplinary curriculum draws upon existing faculty expertise and incorporates courses from the biological sciences, film studies, ethnic studies, border and regional studies, history, geography, linguistics, mass media, Native American studies, nursing, philosophy, political science, sociology, and visual and performing arts.
