Hi Virginia,

We don't want to change the course to 4 units — we're just changing the course number, and the content from a broad survey of European politics to a more specific focus on contemporary issues. The number change is the first of what will be many course number revisions in PSCI, as we try to bring some order to what is now a hodgepodge of 300- and 400-level classes, with no meaningful differentiation between them.

But we don't want any of them to be 4 unit classes. If we indicated that on the C-2 form, that was inadvertent.

Thanks,

Steve

Thank you, Virginia. I was unaware that a 400 number implies 4 credits. That wasn't the intention. It's supposed to be a 3 unit course still. Hence no major changes to the syllabus now but the option to focus on different topics within European politics in the future. I cc'ed Steve Nichols as well.
Best,
Ben

Hello Benjamin,

We received your C-2 form to change PSCI 335 (European Politics) to PSCI 444 (Contemporary Issues in European Politics), along with changing it from 3 units to 4 units. I know that UCC will want to see a current syllabus from PSCI 335, along with a new syllabus for PSCI 444, given that it is changing from 300-level to 400-level, and also the course description is changing. If you could provide that to me and Criselda Yee, we'll send the proposal to UCC first thing this coming Fall.

Thanks,
Virginia
