just an overnight hashtag sensation; Tarana has dedicated more than 25 years of her life to social justice and to laying the groundwork for a movement that was initially created to help young women of color who survived sexual abuse and assault. The movement now inspires solidarity, amplifies the voices of thousands of victims of sexual abuse, and puts the focus back on survivors. In her upcoming book, Where the Light Enters, Tarana discusses the importance of the ‘me too.’ Movement as well as her personal journey from “victim to survivor to thriver.” Tarana’s continued work with the ‘me too.’ Movement has earned her the honor of being named The Root 100’s most influential person of 2018. On stage, she provides words of empowerment that lift up marginalized voices, enables survivors across all races, genders, or classes to know that they are not alone, and creates a place for comfort and healing to those who have experienced trauma.

TARANA BURKE
FOUNDER OF THE ‘ME TOO.’ MOVEMENT AND SOCIAL JUSTICE ACTIVIST
February 5, 2019, 6pm, USU Ballroom

Tarana Burke shares the story behind the genesis of the viral 2017 TIME Person Of The Year-winning ‘me too.’ Movement, and gives strength and healing to those who have experienced sexual trauma or harassment. #MeToo is not

Dancing with Ghosts is a shared evening of contemporary dance works by choreographers Kristianne Salcines and Randy Reyes, queer POC. These fierce artists share their embodied research through practices of questioning and responsiveness. They perform survival, identity, intersectionality, presence, absence, democracy, community, process, performativity, and more. There will be glorious dancing. There will be a mess. There will be discovery. These are urgent dance works of our time. Come and celebrate the radically transformative power of dance!

Kristianne Salcines is a queer Filipina born and raised in the Philippines and currently based in LA and Berlin. They explore her cultural heritage and gender representation in their choreographic work. Randy Reyes is a queer-Latinx-brujx originally from NJ y Guatemala currently oscillating between the Bay Area, LA, and NYC. They explore Chinese Energetics, the presence of absence, collaborating with grief, joy, and the unseen.

A COMMON STORY: FINDING JOY IN THE FACE OF ADVERSITY
March 12, 2019, 6pm, USU Ballroom

Please join our very own Dr. Mary Robertson (Assistant Professor of Sociology) for an evening of storytelling and performance. Sponsored by the University Library and the Office of Undergraduate Studies, “A Common Story: Finding Joy in the Face of Adversity” is a monologue performance showcase featuring stories told by CSUSM students, faculty, staff, and administrators. Dr. Robertson is a co-producer of The Narrators, a live storytelling event based in Denver and San Diego. She held a series of workshops in the University Library during the Fall 2018 semester that focused on how to craft, develop, and perform a personal narrative tailored to the theme of living a life of joy in the face of adversity. The prompt relates to the themes present in the 2018-19 CSUSM University Library Common Read, “The Book of Joy” https://biblio.csusm.edu/content/common-read-2018-19-book-joy

What would it be like to give up a job as the host of a popular national daytime talk show to take on a role with a startup cable channel with no successes at the time — to follow your passion? Lisa Ling, executive producer and host of This is Life on CNN, knows because she lived it. Recognized for her role as a co-host of ABC Daytime’s hit show The View, which won its first daytime Emmy during her time at the show, Lisa went on to become a field correspondent for The Oprah Winfrey Show and contributor to ABC News’ Nightline and National Geographic’s Explorer. Lisa has reported from dozens of countries around the world, covering stories that deal with issues that are too often ignored. She got her start in journalism as a correspondent for Channel One News, where she covered the civil war in Afghanistan at 21 years of age. Come and hear Lisa share her story and explore how she overcame barriers and challenges experienced by women in non-traditional careers.

example of unconditional love in difficult times as he shares what three decades of working with gang-involved men and women in Los Angeles has taught him about faith, compassion, and the enduring power of kinship.

Father Boyle is a Jesuit priest who served as pastor of Dolores Mission Church, then the poorest Catholic parish in Los Angeles that also had the highest concentration of gang activity in the city. During the 90s, he witnessed the devastating impact of gang violence on his community, Boyle Heights. In the face of law enforcement tactics and criminal justice policies of suppression and mass incarceration as the means to end gang violence, Father Boyle, his parish and community members adopted what was a radical approach at the time: treat gang members as human beings. A mantra that fuels Homeboy Industries in everyday life.

Boyle has received the California Peace Prize and has been inducted into the California Hall of Fame. In 2014, the White House named Father Boyle a Champion of Change. He received the University of Notre Dame’s 2017 Laetare Medal, the oldest honor given to American Catholics.

Father Gregory “G-Dog” Boyle is the founder and director of Homeboy Industries in Los Angeles, the largest gang-intervention, and re-entry program in the world. He will speak about his new book, Los Angeles Times-Bestseller Barking to the Choir: The Power of Radical Kinship. His book represents a moving
The book series, A Song of Ice and Fire, and the associated TV show, Game of Thrones, takes place in a fantasy world with ice walls, fearsome medieval weapons, unpredictable seasons, and dragons. Though a fictional world, many of the more fantastical aspects have a basis in science. Dr. Rebecca Thompson, Head of Public Outreach for the American Physical Society, is currently touring the country talking about all the science George R. R. Martin managed to pack into his world. Come listen to her talk about the heat of dragon fire, the metallurgy of weapon-grade steel, the science of seasons, the biology of a beheading, and many more science topics taken from the hit TV show and the books on which it is based. If you like what you hear, you can read more in her upcoming book, Fire, Blood, and Physics: The Science of Game of Thrones.
