Dear Graduate,

Yes, I’m talking to you! Doesn’t it sound good? Congratulations on your momentous achievement! You have invested a great deal of your present to prepare for your future with this college degree or credential. You have likely worked harder than any other time in your life. Along the way, you have enjoyed the thrill of academic discovery and the challenge of intellectual pursuit.

Life is a journey, and today represents a tremendous milestone in your life’s journey. For many of you, earning your undergraduate, graduate or professional certification is your most significant accomplishment to date, and you should be proud of yourself. I know that we are proud of you and what you have achieved.

The journey continues after today’s celebrations. You are going out into a world that needs your talent, your skills and your determination to make a difference. You will need to continue your education—it is now part of your life’s journey, whether it takes place in the classroom or in the community.

On behalf of California State University San Marcos, I wish you the very best for a happy and rewarding future, and I congratulate your loved ones who supported your quest for this achievement. We are counting on you to give the best possible meaning to your newest title, “Cal State San Marcos alumni!” And we hope you will stay in touch as an active member of our university alumni community.

Sincerely,

Karen S. Haynes, Ph.D.
President
Academic Regalia and Ceremony
The caps and gowns worn by graduates and faculty are based on costumes used in universities of the 14th and 15th centuries, particularly at Oxford and Cambridge in England. This academic dress has been used in the United States from colonial times and was standardized by an Intercollegiate Code in 1895. Like the military of medieval times with its pages, squires and knights, the academic world has long had three basic grades of dignity and achievement. These are undergraduates, bachelors and masters (or doctors). The distinction between masters and doctors is comparatively recent; both imply the right to teach.

Black is the most common color for academic gowns. There is no trimming on the gowns for bachelor's or master's degrees. For the doctoral degree, the gown is faced down the front with black or colored velvet and with three bars of the same across the sleeves. The color in the master's costume is restricted to the hood worn around the neck and down the back. This is edged with velvet or a color that indicates the subject area of the degree received and is lined with silk of the colors of the institution that granted the degree.

Doctors have a larger and more open hood lined, like the master's hood, with the colors of the degree-granting institution and trimmed with the light blue color that signifies the education discipline. As noted above, gowns have black or colored velvet on the sleeves and the front. Usually doctors will wear a gold tassel on their cap. In recent years, some universities have broken away from the traditional scheme and allowed their doctors to wear brighter, more original costumes; for instance, Yale's blue with black trim and Harvard's crimson and black.

Candidates for bachelor's degrees do not usually wear hoods.

Academic Honors
California State University San Marcos recognizes students who have attained distinction by the awarding of Latin honors.

There are three distinctions of Latin Honors
Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise)
Requires a grade-point average of 3.9 to 4.0.

Magna Cum Laude (with great praise)
Requires an average of 3.7 to 3.89.

Cum Laude (with praise)
Requires an average of 3.5 to 3.69.

Honors designees wear a gold cord.

Class champions/Student philanthropists wear a blue and white cord.

Mace
Following a long history as an article of war, by the 14th century the mace became a symbol of authority and pageantry that was used in processions by city mayors and other dignitaries. Academic institutions included the mace as an emblem of order and authority in ceremonial occasions. The first recorded use was at the University of Vienna in 1385.

The California State University San Marcos mace is carried in procession and mounted on stage whenever degrees are granted or when the faculty is assembled in formal academic dress.

The California State University San Marcos mace is unusual in that it has two ceremonial maces. The first is an informal mace that recognizes the special relationship the campus has with the tukwut, the Luiseño name for mountain lion. This mace was carved in wood by a member of the Luiseño tribe and is ornamented with beads. The student body president or a chosen representative, who leads the procession of graduates, carries the informal mace in the commencement procession.

The chair of Academic Senate or a chosen representative carries the formal mace while leading the faculty in the commencement procession. The formal mace is made of walnut and brass. It bears the official seal of the university and is inscribed with the date the campus was founded. It was donated by the Cal State San Marcos Alumni Association in May 1998.
James Nelson & T.J. Dixon

T.J. Dixon and James Nelson produce large scale, figurative public sculpture and design work. While primarily figurative sculptors who create public art, their projects include public and private work on gardens, plazas, buildings, fountains and memorials.

Their portfolio includes work displayed at locations like CSUSM, UCSD, Scripps Memorial Hospital, Clemson University, and the San Diego Animal Shelter. Their art has not only received public acclaim, but each piece adds a unique, distinctive sense of place to many communities, including California State University San Marcos.

The sculptors’ vision of César Chávez won the heart of the CSUSM campus and its surrounding community when the statue was unveiled on March 31, 1997. The statue’s location atop a flight of stairs and the inspiring words of “Si Se Puede. It Can Be Done.” bring dignity to the tribute and underline CSUSM’s commitment to diversity and social justice.

Dixon and Nelson continued their partnership with CSUSM after the Chávez sculpture’s completion, graciously contributing their time and ideas to panel discussions, classes, and commemorative events on campus. While the purpose of the statue was to honor the life and legacy of Chávez, the vision and creativity of Dixon and Nelson has had an indelible effect on the CSUSM campus.

Ginger Shaw

Ginger Shaw is the Vice Chair of the San Diego Regional Human Trafficking and Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC) Advisory Board. Shaw also serves as President and Executive Director of California Against Slavery (CAS), a human rights organization known for the passage of Proposition 35, The Californians Against Slavery Act, and for strengthening California state laws to protect victims of human trafficking.

Shaw is the founder of Free Them Road, a grassroots non profit that advocates for human trafficking awareness by ensuring Resource Center hotline posters are visible in locations often passed by trafficking victims. Her involvement as a field representative for World Concern took her overseas where she helped advocate for education and economic development for women and at-risk children around the world. She has continued that international involvement, supporting international workers with communications, training and leadership development.

Shaw is a CSU Northridge and San Diego State alumna who focuses her work on anti-human trafficking advocacy, awareness and training. She brings years of international and community organization experience to her endeavors.

CHANCELLOR’S MESSAGE
To The Graduates

Dear Class of 2019,

Today, you are in many ways different from the person you were on your first day on campus. In your time at the California State University, you have transformed from someone who learns about innovations in your field into a person fully capable of advancing these innovations.

Your educational transformation was spurred by your faculty, who trained you to look at the world with a critical eye and an open mind. Their efforts were supported by the work of your counselors, advisors, librarians, tutors and coaches who created an encouraging environment for you to succeed. All the while, your family, friends, colleagues and loved ones kept you motivated and saw you through your academic journey.

Your accomplishment today fills all of them—indeed all of us—with pride.

You are now part of the 3.7 million CSU alumni who are powering California, the nation and the world. These alumni are solving our greatest challenges, educating the next generation, fighting for equality and creating new opportunities for economic prosperity.

I encourage you to stay connected to the CSU. Use these connections—both to your campus and to other CSU alumni—to expand your opportunities and to make a meaningful impact on your community and the world.

I also encourage you to support the generations who endeavor to follow in your footsteps.

The word we use to commemorate an earned university degree is “commencement.” This is, of course, deliberate. Today is not an end, but rather a beginning. And as you embark upon your life’s journey, may your hard work and sacrifices pay dividends far beyond today’s celebration, both in your life and in the lives of those around you.

Congratulations, California State University Class of 2019. I look forward to all that you will accomplish.

Sincerely,

Timothy P. White
Chancellor
