

Supporting Virtual Instruction: Surviving and Thriving While Teaching Online

After the initial rush of planning, we know that faculty need support as they implement their plans, assess what is working, and think through teaching in the spring. The Faculty Center has created a series of workshops meant to both support faculty on specific topics as well as providing general opportunities to share your experiences with colleagues.

Workshops hosted by Cynthia Melendrez, Faculty Fellow for Online Teaching and Matt Atherton, Associate Director for Teaching & Learning, unless otherwise noted.

September 22, 2:00-3:00PM - Checking In With Faculty: What's Working and What Needs Work?

October 1, 2:00-3:00PM - Planning for Spring: Asynchronous or Synchronous

October 6, 2:00-3:00PM - Why We Should be Checking in on Our Students: Using "Big Brother" Tools for Good?

October 8, 12:00-1:00PM - Zoom'd Out: Alternative Virtual Platforms For Your Classes. Presented by Tumay Tunur, Faculty Fellow for Diversity, Inclusion & Social Justice and Assistant Professor Kinesiology

October 13, 2:00-3:00PM - Checking in With Faculty: Exams, Evaluations, and Plagiarism. Oh My!

October 22, 2:00-3:00PM - Checking In With Faculty: Using Student Feedback and Mid-Semester Evals to Right The Ship

October 29, 2:00-3:00PM - Supporting our Students with Disabilities: Presented by John Segoria and Ben Towns, Disability Support Services, and Jennie Ruiz, Associate Dean of Students.

November 5, 1:00-2:00PM - Supporting TA's: Thinking About Next Semester

November 10, 2:00-3:00PM - Checking In With Faculty: Taking Care of Yourself

November 18, 11:00-12:00PM - Press <START> to Continue: Gamification and Grades by Attrition. Presented by Tumay Tunur, Faculty Fellow for Diversity, Inclusion & Social Justice and Assistant Professor Kinesiology

REGISTER HERE

FACULTY CENTER

For more information, contact the Faculty Center at facctr@csusm.edu