Our hope is that by completing the Tukwut Leadership Circle and now the Multicultural Intelligence & Leadership Certificates, you are more equipped to challenge social inequalities and make positive social changes in our region and world.

1. What were your “ah-ha moments” and any realizations/observations you had about leadership by participating in your MIL criteria. Summarize what you did for your volunteer hours and social identity center events. What did you learn or gain by participating in these different opportunities?
2. Who did you interview for your leadership interview and why? What was the most important thing you learned from the leader that you interviewed and what are some of their qualities that you may want to emulate or avoid?
3. Please share your salient personal identities that you believe inform your leadership style and philosophy.
4. What can you do with what you know now about leadership and multicultural intelligence? How you are or how you will be facilitating/leading social change?
